

CHURCH PROPHECIES from Sandra Luban

1/2/2022

Yea, I present to you a new year at this time; yea, it is new for you. Yea, forget all the things that happened last year except for the landmarks that might have caused you to come closer to Me, but know that I have set a path for you this year. A path that is step by step closer to Me. Take each step day by day that you may come into My presence; that you may come into the fullness that I would have for you in this hour. Behold, I have presented you with a new year, a new slate. Forget those things that are behind and look forward, press forward unto Me in this hour.

11/14/2021

Yea, give me your ears in this hour; I would have you to give me all of your attention in this hour, for I have words to speak to you. Sometimes they are sweet words, and sometimes they are strong words, and sometimes they are words that will hurt your soul, but know I am your healer, and I will bind up those wounds as you allow me to minister to you in this hour, but listen to Me; listen to Me with your whole heart. Hear with those ears of understanding that I have given you. Don't listen with your natural ears, but listen with your spiritual ears in this hour, for I have a word for you in this hour; I have a word that will set you free, give you the strength to set you on your journey.

9/5/2021

Yea, I am calling you to wait on Me in this hour. Yea, I am calling you to wait quietly on Me in this hour. For yea, I have a purpose in your waiting; I have a purpose in your being silent and quiet in this hour. For as the squirrels start burying their nuts, as the ant takes the food into her ant hill, I'm asking you to be quiet and store up for the winter is coming, and don't be afraid to be silent during that winter, for those roots that I have within that plant within you are growing deep in that soil. Yea, and those roots will go deep and then they will bear fruit upward in the spring. So, don't look at the winter as a horrible time, but look at it as a time of refreshing, and a restoring and a growth of those roots within you, and look forward to that spring when I will bring forth that new life; that new life that will pop up in unexpected places. But know that you need to have that winter right now; so, prepare and don't dread it. Prepare for those roots to go down deep in this hour so that in the spring that plant will rise up in glorious beauty and liberty in the Spirit.

8/29/2021

Yea, I have given you My hope in this hour. Yea, I have given you My strength in this hour. I have given you My power in this hour but you must allow yourself to diminish that My power and My strength and My hope can come forth in you in this hour. Yea, you need it in this hour and you will need it in this hour, so diminish yourself and let your life, that spirit life within you, come forth in My hope, My power and My strength in this hour.